

TISHA B'AV: the Destruction of the Temples

What is Tisha B'av?

What do you do when a central piece of your life, your identity, is taken away? While most holidays in Judaism celebrate triumphs of the Jewish people, Tisha B'Av (the 9th day of Av) commemorates the destruction of the First and Second Temples. The First Temple was destroyed by the Babylonians in 586 B.C., and the Second by the Romans in 70 C.E. The ninth day of Av varies according to the Jewish calendar. Not only is it a day of memorializing the Temples, but some also choose to mourn other challenges faced by the Jewish people such as the expulsion from England (1290) or the exile from Spain (1492). On Tisha B'Av, we remember a time when Jews asked themselves, "Where do we go from here?"

How We Celebrate

Tisha B'Av lasts 25 hours and is celebrated by fasting. The restrictions placed during this holiday are similar to those on Yom Kippur (i.e. refrain from eating, drinking, bathing, wearing cosmetics) and many also practice traditional mourning practices such as limiting laughter and idle conversation. In synagogues, the Torah cabinet is typically draped in black and the congregation reads the book of Lamentations. It is important to note that Tisha B'Av is the culmination of a three week mourning period in which further restrictions are placed, most commonly celebrations/weddings. If the holiday falls on Shabbat, it is moved to the 10th of Av.

Sunset July 26th - nightfall July 27th.

Bubbe's Corner

Everyone has a Bubbe (Yiddish for "grandmother") and Bubbe's know everything. Today, Bubbe will share some Tisha B'Av fun facts and talk about practices she used to do as a little girl. Whether you are a Bubbe or have a Bubbe in your life, take this opportunity to talk to family and friends about how you commemorate loss and find resiliency in community.

At Jewish summer camp, we would celebrate Tisha B'Av with everyone sitting on the floor and singing songs.

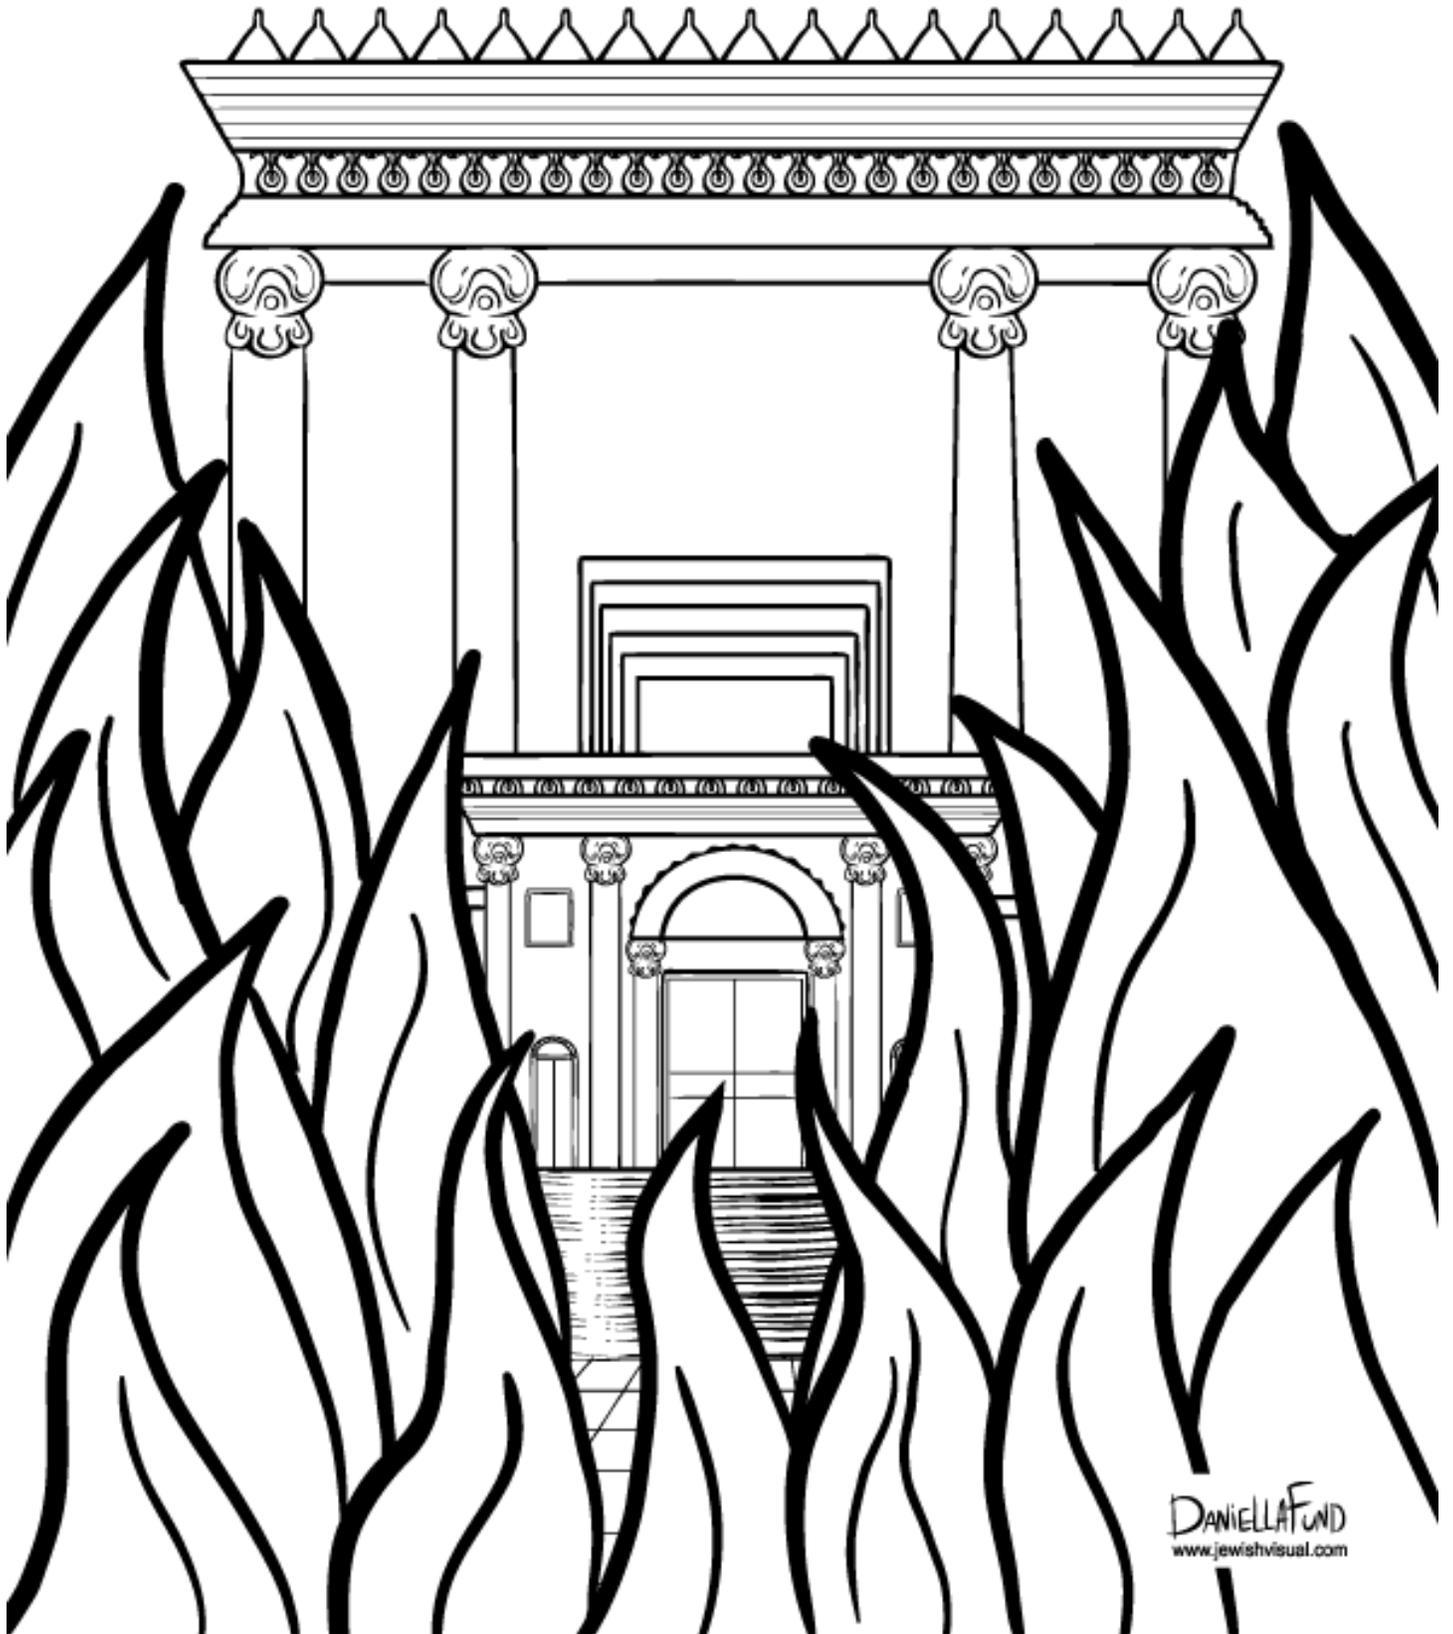

When I was a girl, I remember my father could not shave 9 days before Tisha B'Av. He looked so different with a beard!

In Hebrew School, I learned that there are five scrolls, megillot, that are read outside of the Old Testament at certain times in the year: Song of Songs (Passover), Book of Ruth (Shavuot), Lamentations (Tisha B'Av), Ecclesiastes (Sukkot), and Book of Ester (Purim).
